

To Whom It May Concern,

February 8, 2018

Lisa Maulden (born in Maple Valley, Washington, USA on 27.3.1993) was member of the Budapest Reds Baseball és Softball Sportegyesült (Budapest Reds Baseball and Softball Club) in Hungary for the 2017 season. She worked as a volunteer in our organization, and was responsible for coaching our women's softball team, and for our youth development program. She was the leader of our junior practices, and our school recruiting program involving 4 local elementary schools, more than 300 children altogether. Also worked as assistant coach for the Hungarian softball national team competing at the European Championship in Bollate, Italy.

She was a great support for softball in Hungary, helping to promote the game in the country and contributing to increase the level of softball in general. With her professional attitude, exceptional work ethic and enthusiasm for the game of softball she appeared as an example for the young generation as well as coaches in the Hungarian baseball and softball community.

I believe she would be a great benefit for the sport development in your country, therefore I recommend you to make it possible for her to be able to work in New Zealand.

Sincerely,

Halmos Balázs
